

Product Demonstrations

Please be aware that cosmetology laws in many states may require a cosmetology or beautician license for individuals who physically apply cosmetics or cosmetic treatments to others – either with the hand or mechanical devices. Doing so without the required license can lead to the unauthorized practice of cosmetology and/or be a violation of law. You should avoid touching any potential customer, charging for skin care demonstrations, or setting up a skin care class for demonstration - because such may be deemed “the practice of cosmetology” in many states.

As an Independent Brand Affiliate, it is your sole responsibility to ensure you are in compliance with all state and local laws that govern these matters. If you have any questions, please contact your appropriate state licensing authority.
